

BOTTLEBRUSH SQUIRRELTAIL

This grass is so beautiful when young and such a problem when mature. The seed heads have a needle-like bristle at the tip of each seed which can be dangerous for livestock and pets, because they can embed in the animals' mouths, eyes, nose and digestive systems. It will displace native grasses. This is a perennial that should be pulled.